Airman Claims Mitsubishi Aircraft Plant is Wiped Out

S. LOSSES ARE LIGHT

id Believed To Be More Effective Than The First

(INS Staff Correspondent)
YUAMA, May 17—May 17-Japan's vital industrial city of Nagoya hit its hardest blow to date today, according to reports from American airmen who participated in the second 500-plane raid on the city within four days.

29 crewmen who for the second time since Monday poured millions of incendiary bombs on Japan's third largest city, reported that few Jap fighters opposed them and anti-aircraft fire was only sporadic as they dropped their missiles on the industrial vitals of the metropolis.

One airman went so far as to say that the vast Mitsubishi aircraft plant, a priority target, was wiped out by the B-29's. The big planes concentrated on the southern section.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

A memorial service on May 27th in Bensalem Methodist Church will honor the late Pfc. Robert D. Thomas, of Philadelphia, formerly of Crofton. The service will be at 11 a. m. Members of the Bensalem church, and of Wilkinson Memorial Methodist Church, Crofton, and other friends, are invited. Pfc. Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Thomas, Philadelphia, lost his life in action in Italy on February 26th at the age of 20 years. A sister, Sgt. Frances Thomas, of the WAC, is in the Philippines; and a brother, Cpl. Jack B. Thomas, is in India.

FIREMEN CALLED

Bristol firemen yesterday answered a call to extinguish a grass fire on Green Lane. Early last evening the fire whistle went out of operation for a time but repairs were made and it is now in service.

UP-TO-PRESS-TIME WAR BULLETINS

(By International News Service)

SPEED UP TRIALS OF NAZI WAR CRIMINALS

London—British authorities declared today that the stage is set for a tremendous speed-up of trials for top bracket Nazi war criminals. The report followed a flood of public and press criticism over the delay in bringing the war criminal suspects already in Allied hands to trial.

Anger was fanned anew with reports from the channel island of Alderney where the Germans were accused of the brutal murder of between 1,000 and 1,200 Russians and Jews during their long period of occupation.

British officials announced that no Germans will be permitted to leave the island until an investigation on the outrages is completed and responsibility for the crimes fixed.

Meanwhile the Soviet army newspaper "Red Star" printed an article today by Prof. A. Trainin, prominent Soviet jurist, saying that the "War Crimes Commissions had become entangled on the remote approaches to the trial and punishment of the guilty."

TENSION LESSENS AFTER TITO'S AGREEMENT

London—Tension in Allied Europe lessened today after Marshal Tito was reported to have agreed to abide by the decision of the Peace Conference on Yugoslavia's claim on Trieste, Fiume and the Istrian Peninsula. The London Daily Mirror said Tito had sent formal notice to the British that he would withdraw his troops to the east side of the Isonzo river.

However the tough, Moscow-sponsored leader of the Yugoslav partisans was reported to have said his forces would remain in the Trieste-Gorizia area until the peace talks had been completed.

(ABSIE, the American broadcasting station in Europe, said Marshal Tito had ordered his troops in the Istrian Peninsula to withdraw to the east of the Isonzo river. The FCC and NBC recorded the broadcast.)

Prior to Tito's announced decision that he would accede to Anglo-American demands to withdraw until the status of the Trieste area was determined or until the peace conference was held, Allied forces apparently were prepared for joint occupation of the area.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

Jobs

Washington, May 17.—THERE IS an interesting prospect that the professional liberals who insist that after the war some 60,000,000 jobs must be provided to avert widespread unemployment and economic distress may find themselves looking like an over-zealous doctor with an extremely elaborate remedy but no disease to which to apply it.

—o—

THIS DOES not mean that if the disease existed their remedy would effect the cure—far from it. It does mean that, unless those whose judgment seems most worth while are wholly wrong, there is not going to be in this country, following the end of hostilities, any long period of economic sickness, or even a short period—quite the contrary. Yet, that is the assumption upon which the radical elements here and in New York have been proceeding. Upon this theory and the further assumption that private industry

ECONOMY

End of the war in Germany dumps into the lap of President Truman one of the most distressing problems of the generation—the task of deflating Federal war expenditures.

As a generality, the problem is simple and the answer obvious: gigantic payrolls and appropriations have been set up, on the military possibility that the European conflict might last for months on years; now that the war is over, these must be trimmed.

But from the Administrative point of view, the question cannot be met in generalities. If payrolls are to be reduced, someone has to be fired. If the spending is to be curbed, funds earmarked for definite purposes must be pruned.

In both fields there will be inevitable political repercussions, unfailingly embarrassing to the new head of the Democratic organization at a time when he is most eager for unity in the ranks.

The number of surplus personnel is a matter of conjecture. Senator Byrd, Virginia Democrat, has been clamoring for months for the dismissal of 100,000 Federal employees, in the opinion that they were merely in each other's way even during the peak of the war effort.

A recent report of the National Civil Service League states that post-war Federal service should be not more than 2,000,000 as against the present 3,500,000—which means that between now and the arrival of full peace 1,500,000 government employees would be dropped.

The release of so many employees would mean a social and economic dislocation of great size—dwarfed only by the impossible plan of trying to keep them on the payroll.

Congress, which is becoming alarmed over the economic squeeze developing in our national finances, has welcomed heartily the early steps taken by President Truman in the direction of economy.

But these steps thus far are only the painless steps—the writing off the books of contemplated future expenditures not yet actually begun.

They were painless measures in that no one has really lost his job, and the relatively few dismissals which finally will result are still in the distant future.

But they do not bring actual receipts and expenditures a penny's worth nearer balance.

The financial squeeze which the United States faces post-war is one which ought to be fully understood by all men and women, since they must share in deciding what is to be done, and will bear the burden if the decision is unsound.

There is a distinct limit on the receipts which the National government can obtain. The present tax levels are so high that industry and "risk capital" are hamstrung; higher taxes will mean further stagnation—there must be "incentive" tax reductions to raise the total earnings of the American people and their productive facilities.

Meanwhile, the heavy costs of reconversion are ahead, and the planned rate of national spending continues to rise.

The question of the future financial stability of the nation lies in whether post-war spending will be above or below the possible tax revenues.

If expenditures are substantially less than revenues, then the national debts can be carried and eventually re-

GIVES A GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION OF LIFE IN GREENLAND

Capt. Norman L. Davidson Tells of Itinerant Life of Chaplains

FORMER BRISTOLIAN

Contrasts in Temperature and Weather Great Above Arctic Circle

Capt. Norman L. Davidson, U. S. Army chaplain, who is stationed in Greenland, has written a most interesting article which he has forwarded to friends in Bristol. The article was written he states just before leaving Sondrestrom Fjord, above the Arctic Circle. Capt. Davidson, former pastor of Bristol Methodist Church, sent the account of his life in the north to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smoyer, Swain street, who submitted it to The Bristol Courier for publication. The article follows:

"The chaplains of Greenland, of whom there are four, live an itinerant life. They spend from six to eight weeks at each of the three main bases. From these bases they go by plane or ship to visit smaller groups of men at the more isolated outposts. In order to better serve the men the two Protestant and the two Catholic chaplains constantly alternate with each other at the various outposts. By so doing the men of these faiths receive the largest possible ministry by chaplains of their own Communions. On special occasions a Jewish chaplain also comes in, but in every case each chaplain arranges for and encourages the worship services of each other's faith.

The chaplains travel at all times of the year, but necessarily most of the itinerating is in the summer-time because winter weather restricts flying and the frozen fjords make shipping impossible. There are great contrasts in temperature and weather between the east and west coasts and between the southern and more northern bases. Then there are also the sudden changes which makes all travelling uncertain. Many weather stations will not make any definite prediction beyond three or six hours. The temperature has been known to drop from 40 degrees above to 50 degrees below zero in less than six hours. Quiet, calm weather may be suddenly followed by high velocity winds. Even navigators around Greenland find currents and tides unpredictable. All these conditions along with the work among the men, makes life a thrilling experience for the chaplain in Greenland.

Indeed, life in Greenland consists of tremendous contrasts. There is,

HELP FOR THE FARMER

At no time during the war has the job of the American farmer been more important than it is today. Production of other vital war materials can be cut back now that Germany is defeated.
But the need for the food the farmer grows will be greater than ever in the months ahead.

The bald facts are in the report
just issued by War Mobilizer Vinson. Military requirements will be as high as ever for many months. Relief needs are far greater with the end of hostilities in Europe. Supplies are 5 to 10 per cent lower while demands are 5 to 10 per cent greater than they were. Shortages in such essentials as meat, sugar, butter, fats and oils will become more serious.

The prospect fully justifies War Food Administrator Jones' pleas that American farmers and food processors be given more help in doing their essential job.
Mr. Jones would like to see farm machinery given top priority. He wants key personnel on farms deferred. He asks that food-processing plants be placed on the critical or urgent list to give them
"equality with other war industries" in obtaining essential labor and materials.

For the first time since the war began there is a falling off in the demands of war industry and the armed services for manpower and materials. There is surely no better place to put the surplus than on the farms and in the plants struggling to meet the world's demands for food.

PATRIOTS' REWARD

For the complete details of what underground forces in various German-occupied countries contributed to the Allied war effort, the world will have to wait.
For the present, all it knows is that, in the words of General Eisenhower, the contribution was "inestimable."

To all resistance forces in France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Denmark and Norway, the Allies supreme commander has broadcast a message of thanks for their "service to the Allied cause and to the future of all freedom-loving people." The message said in part:

"Inadequately armed and in the midst of a savage and ruthless enemy, you have fought on, month after month, year after year, regardless of the disappointments you suffered and of the danger you have undergone. For most of you, your sole reward has been the knowledge that you have, by your efforts, helped to rid your homeland of the hated enemy."

To the true patriot, that reward is doubtless sufficient. To that the Allied world adds its homage—accompanied by a desire for as much of the resistance story as can be told. Many of the heroic acts of these patriots, some of which have not yet been revealed to the world, will occupy prominent and permanent niches in history.

Not in modern times has opposition to tyranny and slavery been engaged in under more discouraging circumstances.

tor of the city in this morning's strike.

Personnel casualties among the Americans were not heavy, it was learned when the bombers returned to their Marianas bases.

While the giant sky birds were coming to a landing, medals could be seen smashing in the tail windows of one B-29 to remove a gunner killed by an ack-ack burst.
But that plane was an exception, since almost all returned unscathed.

"Flak was rough and we got caught in the beam of a searchlight," said Sgt. Peter J. Kuspis, Pottstown, Pa., who was tailgunner
on a plane commanded by Capt.
Max Myers, Washington, Ind.

"Our bombs were away at 3:30
a. m.," reported Myers, who was one of the first B-29's to follow the "Fatfinder" craft which lit up the target area.

Lieut. Charles Vyhnanek, Berwyn, Ill., bombardier for Myers,
added:

"We were just under a ceiling of 7,000 feet and the target area was clearly outlined."

Succeeding waves of the big planes apparently bombed from out of gathering clouds, some with instruments, and some visually.

Second Lieut. Joseph G. Small,
Sheffield, Mass., reported scattered
flak fire and said:

"You could see flames rippling
across the southern part of Nagoya after the first waves dropped their bombs."

"I think this raid was more effective than the first," said Second Lieut. William Rowston, North
Charleston, S. C., whose plane targeted the flaming Mitsubishi aircraft plant.

"I believe the plant was wiped out," Rowston added.

TO SPEAK AT COMMENCEMENT

NEW HOPE, May 17—Dr. Frederick Maroney, dean of men at Brooklyn College, N. Y., will be the speaker at the annual commencement exercises of New Hope-Solebury High School on Friday night,
June 1st, in the Bucks County Playhouse. The baccalaureate service for the senior class will also be held in the Playhouse, on Sunday night, May 27th.

War Bond Show Planned For Children, June 14

A children's war bond show is scheduled for the afternoon of June 14th, at the Bristol Theatre.
At that time "Uncle Wip" of Philadelphia, known to radio listeners, and "Aunt Margie," of Bristol, will be present, the latter rounding up young local talent to perform.

The admission will be through purchase or sale of a war bond.
Tickets may be secured by the children through Mrs. John Leslie Kilcoyne, or at the Bristol Theatre.

Doylestown To Form Youth Recreation Council

DOYLESTOWN, May 17—The Doylestown Youth Recreational
Council is being organized here with Charles E. Radcliffe as the general chairman.

Every organization in Doylest-
town, including all service clubs, churches, lodges and Borough Council will be asked to co-operate.

There will be a meeting held within two weeks when the purposes of the organization will be outlined and by-laws presented. It is planned to coordinate all play-agencies and recreational set-ups in Doylestown so that no work during the 1945 summer season will be duplicated.

Public Welfare Group To Present A Program

The program of the Bristol
Travel Club tomorrow afternoon will be in charge of the public welfare committee, of which Mrs.
Elwood P. Goslin is chairman.
The program in detail has not been announced by Mrs. Goslin, but an interesting and informative meeting is promised. A number of the members will participate.

The hostesses will be Mrs. Russell W. DeLong and Miss Frances
H. Landreth.

The meeting will convene at 2:30
in the Travel Club home.

TRIPLE CELEBRATION

CROYDON, May 17—A celebration at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
George Esbacher, Second avenue,
on Sunday, marked Mother's day,
Mr. Esbacher's birthday anniversary, and the return of their nephew, William Thomas, from the European war theatre. Also present were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burke and daughter Thelma, Mrs. Russell McGinnis and son, Mrs. Ella Thomas, Mrs. Anna McKelvy, Philadelphia; Mrs. Allan Gleason, Croydon.
Gifts were presented to Mr. Es-bacher.

Sarah A. Diehl, the deceased for many years was a Lutheran clergyman, and was pastor of churches in Maryland, Kentucky, and Bedford county. At the time of his death the Rev. Mr. Diehl was pastor of two churches in Mt. Zion, where he resided.

The deceased, who for one term taught school in Bedminster township, was a graduate of Gettysburg College and the Lutheran Seminary at Gettysburg.

Pvt. George DeHaven, 24, formerly of Doylestown, whose brother, Pvt. Lewis DeHaven, 22, was killed in England last July, according to a War Department telegram received by his widow, Mrs. Marguerite (nee Price) De-Haven, was killed in action in France on January 9th.

Pvt. DeHaven, the 19th County Seat serviceman to have been killed, was serving with the 242nd Infantry. Mrs. DeHaven received word on February 15 that her husband was reported missing in action.

In addition to his widow and two daughters, Pvt. DeHaven is survived by his father, Heil De-Haven, Sr., Pineville; his mother, Mrs. Ruth Landry, Holicon; two brothers serving in the Navy, Heil, Jr., and Harold DeHaven, and three sisters, Mrs. Alfred Probasco, Mrs. Frank Probasco and Mrs.
Mary Wodock, New Hope.

Mrs. Emily Harris Finney, widow of Jesse Finney and at one time a resident of Richboro and Churchville, but now residing in Philadelphia, recently celebrated her 100th birthday anniversary at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr.
and Mrs. Walter Wolf, Phila.

Peace Proposal Is Made by Japanese

institution of the Emperor can be protected and preserved.

O. S. S., which is the intelligence service for the joint Chief of Staff, labeled as "top secret" the details and source of the peace proposal.
The document was a circulated among a limited number of government agencies.

As yet no reply has been given by the United States Government.
In all probability the proposal will receive no reply, since it does not conform to the Allied demands upon Japan for unconditional surrender.

The source of the Japanese peace
feeler was described as an individual who, though not a top-ranking government official, is a person of semi-official standing.

This fact gave the move more weight than earlier proposals which have sprung from Japanese individuals having no influence with the Tokyo war lords. In at least one previous case, a peace proposal has come from the Mitsui and Mitsubishi commercial groups which have had profitable business connections in the United States.

This latest proposal, it was said officially, emphasizes the need for preserving the Emperor of Japan as the only force capable of preventing revolutionary upheavals inside Japan.

American officials have gained the clear impression from Japanese sources that if Emperor Hirohito is to be regarded as a war criminal to be tried and possibly executed by the Allies, the Japanese will fight to the last man.

While there was no disposition whatever to modify the terms of unconditional surrender, some Washington officials frankly stated that the war could be brought more quickly to an end, with the saving of thousands of American lives, if the Japanese could feel some as-urance regarding the person of the Emperor.

It was this same feeling, officials pointed out, which led to giving directions that the Doolittle raid on Tokyo in 1942 should avoid bombing the palace of the Emperor.

Undersecretary of State Grew has stated publicly he thinks the Emperor may serve Allied interests better alive than dead. Grew's point is that the Emperor is the only authority in Japan high enough to make Japanese soldiers lay down their arms on the continent of China, after the islands of Japan have fallen.

Washington officials made it quite clear, however, that if the Emperor is to be saved, it will be by the free option of the Allies, and not by making his safety a condition of Japanese surrender.

In other words, the surrender terms remain unconditional.

tired. If spending cannot be lowered far enough below receipts to meet the debt's interest and retirement charges, we will continue our present drift toward bankruptcy
via inflation.

The Left-Wing theory, rather clearly stated by Henry Wallace and other spokesmen of the 60,000,000-job scheme, is that national credit is unlimited—or will be for at least another generation; and that therefore the nation can keep on spending more than it earns, and borrowing
the rest.

One of the main points of union between the Southern Democrats and the Republicans in Congress is that both feel this idea to be utterly impossible as an economic plan, and disaster-bound as a political program.

Under the guidance of the fusion blocs in the two Houses of Congress, drastic cuts are being made piecemeal in appropriations. But without a green light from the White House, this type of Congressional economy can not meet the needs.

President Truman faces a momentous decision, which will have great bearing on our national future, and possibly quite a bit to do with the standing he himself will enjoy some three years from now—the decision of whether to bring our national budget into balance by economy or inflation.

Graphic Description
Of Life In Greenland

the hand, the deadly monotony tends to leave the most lasting marks upon the minds of the men who live in the little travelling. On the other hand, there is the sudden and excitement of danger and especially if one wanders out of the beaten path of the base where this is being above the Arctic Circle, the dark winters are especially To go four months without the sun; to have dawn for about two hours and be followed by twilight for two hours; to grope in the darkness from one building to the next, then when a man enters indoors he lives always by light, in crude but substantial barracks, breathing the air from oil stoves, seeing ways in long rows, and hearing the sounds peculiar to the human animal. We eat, sleep and work in a world of ghosts. This is a side of life, the most interesting, probably, in the world. In summertime we have the opposite experience of constant light. At the time of this writing we have about 20 hours of sunshine a day, the remaining four hours are in twilight. This is a very pleasant time for a time. But only for a time. The glare of the sun makes it wearing of dark goggles is necessary. It becomes difficult to see. And for 24 hours vast numbers of bugs and mosquitoes rise about you wherever you are.

There is little in this country to give the comforts of life. Nature is dressed. People who live in the north realize how much the land and spirit is fed by their environment. When such people are transplanted to some length of time in a barren land like Greenland they experience something of mental and spiritual famine. Unconsciously a man seeks for the soul and when he fails to find it he suffers and begins to despair. To live in the presence of nature brings to the average man something like moral starvation. The mind begins to starve for adornment. But all is cold, stern and unchangeable like a corpse. In the north there is variety in man and nature. Here the poverty of the environment makes one feel an increasing emptiness in life. However, the chaplain does not think that mental and spiritual life is necessarily true of every man. He finds and knows that man can find God in Greenland. He is sure that the reverent, faithful mind can, even here, find those human and divine qualities which will enrich the life and even greater living in the north. Above our heads the skies still have new life and beauty each night and morning. They suggest the majesty of the Creator. By way of contrast, the dark mountains seem to have unshakable foundations and speak of eternity in the midst of time. But amid the mountains we see the glaciers grinding their way, imperceptibly and sometimes perceptibly but always irresistibly, through the crevasses to remind us that nothing is certain and that even the mountains must crumble. These irreconcilable contrasts are ever before us. Looking up at the moving heavens we see life and God; looking around at the stern, bleak peaks and ridges we see death and hopelessness. The same extremes are found in the weather. One day is fair and calm. A serene peace seems to rest upon all things. The next day is dull and stormy and a hundred-mile gale rages as though all the devils in hell had broken their chains. Then our narrow land between the hills becomes like a galloping-ground for murderous hordes and the dim cloud-encircled mountain ridges and peaks are like goal-posts across which are tossed avalanches of snow. The steady drive of the wind with its intermittent and shaking gusts makes a noise like the whistling and shouting of a million voices which you feel as well as hear, and you imagine that the mountain sides have become mighty grand-stands filled with unearthly beings shouting themselves hoarse at the spectacle. But all the elements of nature combined cannot destroy the human-divine spark that burns in the heart of every man. It is that spark that makes us feel that we belong together; that we belong to our loved ones, and by the same token, that we belong to God. Of this flame the chaplain stands as a symbol. By music, by prayer, by sermon, by a friendly hand and a confident word he lives to keep alive the spark that shall some day, by God's grace, burn with new brightness in our reunited homes, in our national life and throughout the world.

By FRANK R. KENT

radicals and its pernicious impact on the more it is studied. The second reason is that it lacks the backing of the President, and without that backing there is slight chance of its making much headway.

AT HIS second press conference Mr. Truman was asked point-blank if he were for the Murray employment bill. Without hesitation, he replied that, of course, he was for "full employment," but he had not read the Murray bill and, therefore, had nothing to say about it. This left the left-wingers feeling pretty low in their minds, though it did not diminish their determination to push their pet plan. The third reason is the most cogent of all—to wit, that for a long time after the war there will be no real unemployment in this country. Consequently, there will be no need for the creation of 60,000,000 or even 60,000 jobs.

This is the view held by Mr. E. M. Barnich and other experienced nonpolitical, non jobholding and non job-seeking students and economists. In their opinion, there will be for the next few years (five to seven anyway, they say, and unless we are very stupid much longer than that) more jobs than there are men to fill them.

THOSE WHO hold this view make a convincing argument to sustain their statement. They point out that, following the war, the demand for all sorts of civilian goods will be far in excess of the supply; that private industry will be pushed to its utmost to meet the demand; that it will absorb all available men willing to work, and its great problem will be to find enough of them. There will be much shifting, some confusion and temporary local unemployment but no general or prolonged unemployment period calling for legislation or big governmental spending. The building industry alone is so far behind as to insure a period of prosperity if there were nothing else. But every industry is in the same condition—railroads, mines, farms, factories of all kinds are waiting for the release of men from the Army and war-production plants to start ahead at full speed not only to build houses, equip railroads, telephone companies and other utilities but to supply the hundreds of thousands of small luxuries and near necessities which a population of 135,000,000 have been denied for three years.

IT IS also pointed out that, on the average, these 135,000,000 now have more money laid away in banks and bureau drawers to buy these things than they ever dreamed of having before. No one can look these facts in the face and believe that a period of unemployment will follow the end of the fighting. It is nonsense to talk about the necessity of creating 60,000,000 jobs. All that is needed is common sense enough to avoid runaway inflation and to exercise sufficient national self-control not to go crazy. If we can do that, then the professional liberals are going to be left clapping their hands and looking very foolish, indeed.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

YOUR PERFECT DAY, my bride, requires the loveliest frock you can afford. In the "Better Dress Corner" of the Snellenburg Store you may have your choice of white marquisette; satin and lace combined; taffeta or all lace; at from $19.95 to $79.95. Sizes come 10 to 18. You will like these Better Dress Corner frocks are made. (2nd fl.)

A VEIL? Of course you want one for that marrying day. The Snellenburg Store has a little balcony shop where wedding veils are made at their lowest. Not expensive, either, as nice veils go. Fingertip lengths $15 up, full-length veils $30 up. Visit the little shop to make your choice, allowing ten days to two weeks for making. Special arrangements for selling hurried "furlough brides." Finished veils include sweet crowns of waxed orange blossoms, pearlized tiaras, or dew-droplet beaded Juliet caps! (2nd fl. Balcony, near 11th St. elevators.)

A PERMANENT REMINDER of her wedding season is an exquisite "California Dresden" china figurine, or it may be a pair, so much after the old "Dresden" manner that they could pass for authentic. In fact, I think the sweet things have more charm and wit because they are American made. There's a "Watteau" shepherdess air about them, too. They make handsome wedding gifts indeed. You must see them to appreciate them. $14.98 to $35 each. "California Dresden" sets of elegant box and two trays are priced at $14.95, candy dishes at $11.98, wall brackets $24.50 a pair. Other lovely things, too, in this ware. I haven't seen the precious stuff elsewhere than in the Snellenburg China Dept. (3rd fl.)

COOL SLEEP, FREE PLAY are possible in the new-style "play pajamas" in true midriff style. The Snellenburg Lingerie Dept. has, among others, a white rayon model ray with pea-sized dots in red or blue. The knee shorts are well made, roomy but with fit, and have a trim self-belt. The tie-front top is graceful. Plenty of bare midriff for coolness! Sizes 32 to 38. Sleep in 'em or wear for gardening, tennis, housewifery. Hurry to buy while they last! $9.95. (2nd fl.)

P.S. Shop at this friendly store—Market from 11th to 12th, thru to 1125-29 Chestnut St., Phila. Or order by mail. Or phone free (5c, 10c and 15c out-of-town calls only.) Clippings appreciated. Penna. number, ENTERprise 10160; New Jersey, WX-1150. Cheerio! Faithfully, FAITH.

SUMMER PICK-UP work is a must for those busy women who would relax without a guilt complex gibbering on the sidelines. Knitting is suitable for those who don't drop stitches, but crocheting is the pastime for those of us who do. The Snellenburg Art Needlework Dept. has a keen instructor in both crochet and knitting. I suggest that you have her teach you to make a smart summer crocheted handbag or two from the new soft cotton chenille. It comes in luscious shades—white, rose, pink, beige, blues, greens, yellow, etc. Two-ounce hanks 45c. Call for free lessons in making handbags, hats, sweaters, etc., any time except between 12 noon and 1 P. M. or all of Wednesday morning. (2nd fl.)

ONIONS AND LAWNS. Onion "sets" are now to be had in the Snellenburg Garden Dept. at 45c a pound. The variety is yellow. Buy while available. For you more aesthetic garden fiends—what about a plush lawn? That "Girard" grass seed, sponsored for years by this store, costs but $1.29 for a 5-lb. bag. Put it in a sunny space and—whooosh—a green sward! It certainly has repeat sales. Nice Garden Dept., this! (1st fl.)

MAGIC PAINT—It truly is, the "Plasti-Kote" sponsored by that knowing Snellenburg Paint Dept. For inside work. Comes in many delightful colors for furniture and woodwork, and in pleasing floor colors. Dries in a few hours to a particularly firm, rich finish. Not only are there luscious colors, but "Plasti-Kote" comes "clear." To be used in place of varnish or shellac. Moreover, it is really water and alcohol proof! Drop in, or send to the Snellenburg "Houseware Office" for a "Plasti-Kote" color card. $2.95 qt., $8.50 per gal. (3rd fl.)

NOBLE RACQUETS! You can get a grand "Bancroft" tennis racket, men's weight, at only $9.95—worth much more. Especially strong, and strung with extra special gut. Just like to the Snellenburg Sporting Goods Dept. Several other good "buys," especially Cortlands and Spaldings. Buy one of the Bancrofts ahead as a Father's Day gift! Good balls, 50c each; carton of 3, $1.50. (3rd fl.)

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rev. Ronald A. Wiley
Pastor
Andalusia P. E. Church

O Lord Jesus Christ, who promised forgiveness of sins to all those who truly turn unto thee, make us to do thy will. Let us count nothing burdensome which thou layest upon us. Give us a more childlike, trusting spirit. May we ever remember that we are in our Father's hands, and that he chooses of our portions for us. When sorrows and trials come may we trust and not be afraid, feeling assured that thou wilt never leave us or forsake us. Grant this for Jesus Christ sake. Amen.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Black Market Versus Brighter Meals

I guess my town doesn't like rationing any better than other folks. But when a fellow went from door to door the other day, peddling butter, cheese, and bacon without points, he didn't find a single taker.

Ed Carey's missus, Sarah, summed it up. "I'd just be ashamed to have that butter on my table," Sarah says. "I'd a heap rather have my family and guests put up with what I can serve honestly, than give 'em a treat from the Black Market."

These days, most people are agreed that a simple menu of unrationed foods and substitutes is a badge of honor... no apologies required!

And from where I sit, housewives can brighten limited meals with cheerful table decorations, sparkling cider or tangy ice-cold beer, or side dishes of home-made preserves and fruits and nuts. Those little touches can be mighty helpful to the appetite.

VOLTZ NINE MOVES STEP CLOSER TO SECOND POSITION

Bristol Team Pounds Out
8 to 3 Victory Over
Prison Officers

ACCUMULATED 10 HITS

Dick's Hurling Again Aids
His Team To A Victory

Voltz-Texaco moved a step closer to second place in the Trenton Industrial League by pounding out an 8-3 victory over the Prison Officers last evening on the high school diamond.

The winners had ten hits to their credit but bunched one-half of these in the first two innings to score six of their runs. With a six-run start, the gammen coasted to the triumph.

Again it was Stanley "Parrot" Dick who twirled the Voltzmen to the victory. Dick held the visitors to seven scattered hits and the three runs scored by the Guards were the result of extra base hits.

"Vic" Rockhill was the big run for the Texaco hitters as he stepped up to the plate four times and delivered three hits. He started the first inning rally with a single and before it was over, an error, walk, and singles by B. Ritter and Ludwig had accounted for a trio of runs.

In the second, "Vic" again got the ball rolling with a single and this time, David and J. Dick got the cue to deliver a single and double for two more markers to cross. Dick scored on an error by Holcombe.

The Voltz team will be in action again this evening, meeting the Eastern Aircraft nine on Wetzel's field, Trenton.

CROYDON AND EDGELY WIN IN YOUTH LEAGUE

In closely played games, Croydon A. C. and Edgely won their inaugural of the Bristol Youth League last evening.

Croydon A. C. beat the Croydon Y. M. A., 1-0, in a pitcher's duel on the State Road field, Croydon. Tom Young, of the winners, allowed the Y. M. A. three hits while Earl Wagner gave the Croydon A. C. but two safe bingles.

At Edgely, the Edgely A. C. rallied in the final inning to score three times and beat the Bristol Township High School, 4-3. The Township school was leading going into the last half of the seventh, 3-1, when the Edgely team gave a spurt and Turner Ashby helped to win his own game with a two-bagger to score two runs. On a bobbie in the infield, Ashby also counted the winning marker.

BENSALEM SWAMPS MORRISVILLE; WIN BY SCORE OF 18 TO 0

Loss of Game Practically Eliminates Bulldogs From Lower Bucks Race

DIMITRO ON MOUND

For Six Frames He Pitched
A No-Hit, No-Run
Game

MORRISVILLE, May 17.—In one of the biggest upsets in several years, the Bensalem Township High School team slaughtered the Morrisville Bulldogs, 18-0, yesterday afternoon on the Robert Morris field. The defeat practically eliminated Morrisville from the Lower Bucks County race.

In trimming the Hoffman boys, the Bensalemites also sent their star hurler to the showers. For in the every first frame, seven Bensalem runners crossed the plate. But Johnny Lebergren managed to stick in there until the fifth when Sauerwald went in to pitch.

While it was like a merry-go-round with the Bensalem runners on their way to home plate, Morrisville was having a difficult job of trying to solve the slants of John Dimitro. For six innings, Dimitro had a no-run, no hit game in his grasp but in the seventh, Chubb nicked him for a single, Morrisville's only safe knock of the tilt.

Dimitro was aided by fine fielding on the part of his mates who handled themselves well in every position. Stark led the winners with the stick in getting four out of five, one a triple with two on base in the fifth. Hansen had three hits in six trips to the plate.

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS

Walter Hermanson gave a surprise party in honor of his wife Anna's birthday anniversary on Saturday at their home on Dunks Ferry Road. Floral decorations were used. Refreshments were served to 25 guests from New Jersey and Philadelphia.

John Booth, Sr., has been confined to his home for several weeks by illness.

Woman To Plead Guilty To Murder

concealing the birth of an illegitimate child.

Mrs. Daniels will be represented by the noted Philadelphia Negro attorney, Raymond Pace Alexander and T. Sidney Cadwallader, of Yardley. The case will be prosecuted by District Attorney Edward G. Biester.

Mrs. Daniels was arrested in October, last year, by Trooper Charles Jones, of the State Police, and Chief of County Detectives Anthony Russo, of Bristol. At that time, she admitted, police say, that on September 24th, 1944, she became the mother of one or two children without medical assistance, and that on October 6, she took the dead infants in a bucket and tossed the bucket and contents into a canal, off College avenue bridge in Yardley.

At the time the crime was allegedly committed, Mrs. Daniel's husband, Charles, had been in the Army for three years and had been overseas for a year.

On December 27th, 1944, Mrs. Daniels—after her case had been before the Grand Jury and a true bill returned—was released from the Bucks County Prison under $2,500 bail to appear at the February term this year. The case was again continued, at the February term and the defendant was directed to appear in court today.

America has its snipers, too!

They don't stalk through the streets with guns in hand. They don't shoot down children who are out after curfew. But they talk carelessly, unwisely and intolerantly.

They'd be indignant Americans—these snipers—if you told them they were playing Hitler's game by sniping at "those Catholics," "those Jews" or "those Protestants."

A wise crack is as bad as a bald lie; both carry out Hitler's technique of getting people in a democracy to suspect and fight each other. His game is to set Protestant, Catholic and Jew, Negro and White, each against the other; to set native-born against naturalized citizen, so that he can weaken our efforts, lower our morale, sap our strength. If you don't believe it's so, see what Hitler has done in every country he has overrun . . . including Germany.

Don't let yourself be used as a sniper for Hitler . . . slap down the wise crack or the lie wherever you find it.

Be big . . . be liberal . . . be tolerant . .

Be American!
